a new well. The production is something like 100 barrels, although one of the men who helped to drill it expressed the opinion that it will make as much as 300 barrels.

Abandoned Their Well.

The Ardmore Big Four company, which recently began operations on a large acreage near Mineral Wells, Texas, has completed the first test to a depth of 2,000 feet and has abandoned the well. R. P. Poyard is at Mineral Wells now, making arrangements to drill a second test on the same acreage.

The Sulphur Well.

A. Dunlap has returned from a visit to Sulphur, where he inspected the well at Drake. That well was drilled to the sand several weeks ago and drilling operations have not been resumed. However, much interest is being taken in the location and active trading is going on in surrounding leases.

Twin State Company.

Pete Adsit, superintendent of production in Oklahoma for the Twin State Oil company, is here from his headquarters at Tulsa. Mr. Adsit spent a year in the Healdton field, and is well known to all the local oil men. While the company has made no statement of its intentions, yet it is believed the Twin State people will become very active in the field now within a very short time.

Disney Badly Hurt.

Bob Disney, one of the popular oil well contractors in the field, was severely injured yesterday while at work on No. 9 Herntstadt, in section 6-43. Something went wrong with the machinery, and flying pieces of timber severely injured his head, back and fractured his right leg between the knee and ankle. While the injury is very painful, it is not thought to be serious at this time.

Holding for Better Price.

The Healdton field has a rating of about 100,000 barrels at this time, but the runs are being pro rated on the basis of approximately 77,000 barrels. This is due to the fact that the McMan, the Corsicana, the Gates and the Ardworth companies have disconnected their wells from the pipe line and are putting their pro rata of the production in steel storage, and are holding it for a better price.

Extending the Field.

A. R. McLennan, former president of the Chamber of Commerce at Lawton, and Frank Wright, a well known newspaper man of that city, are making preparations to drill a well in the northwest corner of section 31-33. These people have a rig up and have let a drilling contract to Conway & Kiser. Drilling operations will begin within a short time. This location is northwest of the producing area, and will be watched with much interest.

A Big Gasser.

Crystal Oil company in the north part of section 16-43, between the Desada and the Rex wells, and offsetting the Duard Oil company on the south, has found a gas sand, and the well is making 10 or 15 million feet of gas. The roar of the escaping gas can be heard all over the field. The depth is between 1100 and 1200 feet. This is regarded as rather unusual, as the other wells in that locality have not produced so much gas. The well is also spraying oil.

The One Bright Spot.

It is reported here that storage oil in the Cushing field is selling much higher than the fresh oil, for the reason that the gas in that field is about gone, and the water and sulphur have found their way into the wells and have deteriorated the fresh oil. It seems that the Cushing field is not only going down in production, but is going down in the grade of oil produced, and the Healdton field is now the only bright spot in Oklahoma oil production. This field will be a very active area for the next year or two and deeper sands are found there is no estimating how much oil this area will produce. It is the opinion of many that only the surface of the field has been touched with present development, and there is a prospect that it will give to commerce as much oil as Cushing has given up.

THE GRAHAM FIELD

E. A. Walker, a banker of Oklahoma City, and J. C. Vorhees, a banker of Anita, Iowa, returned here last night from a visit of two or three days to the field. These men have sold the greater portion of their oil holdings in the proven field, but still own an 80-acre tract which includes the west half of the southeast quarter of section 11-43. They are looking out for either a drilling proposition from someone or will drill the property themselves. These two bankers own two-thirds of the acreage mentioned and the other one-third is owned by Don Russell and Charlie Brown of Ardmore.

Mr. Walker has a great deal of confidence in the territory surrounding the Wildcat Jim well, and the drilling in of that well has only confirmed his belief that an important field exists in the neighborhood of Graham. He says that well has over 60 feet of sand, that it is a harder sand than is found in the Healdton field, and he is of the opinion that while the oil is of low gravity that it is a very fine commercial oil. He expects the Oklahoma-Louisiana company, which is drilling in 7-22, about a mile north of the Wildcat Jim, to bring in a well. Mr. Walker states that property in that prospective field is selling at a good price and there promises to be an active drilling campaign there during the fall and winter months.
